課程概述

The Freshman English course is designed to enhance students' English by integrating four aspects of students' receptive and productive skills. Students will engage with appropriate learning materials and activities to improve their understanding of English articles and express their own opinions in English. Additionally, this course aims to help students develop self-learning skills through online discussions and assignments.

課程目標

By the end of this course, students will be able to:

1. Understand the main ideas of the textbook articles.

2. Develop critical thinking skills by expressing their own points of view on the textbook articles.

課程要求

Students will be asked to interact with the instructor and other students online.
